

NEW SERIES---NUMBER 173

—as arithmetic, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Penmanship, &c. Time required to complete the Full Diploma Business Course from 2 to 3 months. Total cost, including Tuition, Books, Stationery, and Board in a good private family, about $60. Students of this College can attend the other colleges of the University, under 16 professors, for year free of charge. When 2 or more enter together, a reduction of $5, on each one's tuition will be made. One who graduates from 21 State and 3 Eastern Colleges

HON. ALBERT GALLATIN TALBOTT is announced in this issue as a candidate for the Speakership of the Lower House of the next Legislature. That he is eminently fitted for the position by experience in parliamentary bodies, is shown in the fact that he has served two years in the Kentucky Legislature, four years in the State Senate, four years in Congress and was a member of the State Constitutional Convention. His election, almost by acclamation, a few days ago to the Legislature by his constituents in Boyle, was a compliment of the most telling kind, and his friends wish to see him further honored with the office to which he is now aspiring. Col. Talbott is 75 years old but is as active as most men are at 50 and his mind is as bright as it ever was. He has always been a hard man to beat and we predict that he will be the next speaker or give the contending man a good deal of trouble.

"From all that we can learn, and that is a good deal, the Louisville papers are doing some tall lying about the Great Southern Exposition. It may be a big thing after awhile, but at present the exhibition is entirely on paper."—[Stanford Interior Journal.]

The editor of the INTERIOR JOURNAL, whose characteristics are candor and courage, ought not to let hearsay lead him into an error. When the Exposition opened every Louisville paper, we believe, stated that it was incomplete. In two weeks it has been completed. If there is any visitor who comes, either to be amused or entertained, and says he is disappointed, the Commercial will refund him his money. It is the largest, the most varied and complete exhibition of manufactures, arts and sciences ever given in this country outside of Philadelphia. The musical features are better than any other Exposition ever offered. The editor of the INTERIOR JOURNAL is invited to attend himself and see if this is not true and his other information mere "superficial grumbling."—[Louisville Commercial.]

All right brother Allison, we shall be down in a few days and if we find the exhibition as good as we know we will since you have said it, it's our treat to chewing gum. And when we get back look out for a big free advertisement.

The New York Sun is endeavoring to start a boom for Hon. William S. Holman, of Indiana. Of him it says: Holman is naturally a reformer, and reform is the great business now to be accomplished. He is an economist. He is a strict constructionist. He never compromises his principles, and he never varies from the line of duty. If he were President, the government would experience a radical change, and the effect of his presence in the White House would be felt for many and many a year after he had left. This, we think, is the kind of man who is now especially needed; and we do not know another in the whole ranks of the democratic party who, in the qualities and characteristics that should go to make up the desirable candidate for 1894, is the superior of William S. Holman.

OFFICIAL returns from all the counties but eight give Procter Knott a majority of 43,571. Should the remaining counties go as in 1879, Knott's majority will be 44,713, a gain of nearly two thousand over the Blackburn majority. Without the eight counties the total vote for Knott is 129,191, Morrow 85,620. The 120,000 republicans that their speakers claimed, do not seem to have turned up, hey Mr. Bradley?

THE Hopkinsville South Kentuckians call on Gov. Knott to make the issuance of a Thanksgiving proclamation one of his first duties after inauguration, so that the people may rejoice that the days of the Blackburn dynasty are ended. We second the brother's motion. The deliverance from the hand of such a creature will certainly be an event for general rejoicing by the people of the State.

KEEP it before the eyes of Billy Bradley & Co., that Knott's majority is in the neighborhood of 45,000 and that there will be just 15 republicans less in the next Legislature than in the last. Verily William would have gone to Colorado sooner had he the true interest of his party at heart.

CLARA BELL says the "latest craze among the girls is to keep their handkerchiefs in their bosoms." Well they are as good as cotton so far as they go, and if they use them in the plural number they will supply all the deficiency, so far as can be detected from outward appearances.

THE "poor nigger" on the State ticket was so fearfully scorched by the republicans that Mr. Cecil's majority begins to look like it will reach 100,000. The average republican cares nothing for the man and brother beyond what he can use him for his own selfish ends.

BUSH NEWTON, of the Richmond Herald, is so much like Phil Thompson that he had to wear a sign labelled "We are not Phil Thompson." It's a good idea old fellow. We would like to see you shot down by the man who would avenge the murder of Walter Davis.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—The telegraph heretofore is about at an end.

—There were 1,715 deaths in Egypt in two days of cholera.

—Lexington is to have a locomotive works with a capital of $500,000.

—The New York republicans will hold their State convention at Richfield Springs September 10.

—Milward's livery stable and a number of houses adjoining were burned at Lexington, Wednesday evening.

—Owing to the absence of witnesses the trial of Neal has been continued. The law's delays will induce the mob spirit again.

—Postmaster Gresham will save from $30,000 to $40,000 on the Postal Guide by cutting out the padding and unimportant matter.

—The U. S. authorities will not permit the fight between Mitchell and Slade to take place in Indian Territory, as has been arranged.

—It is said that Blackburn will pardon Tom Crittenden, the cowardly murderer of the negro witness. If he does he ought to be hung.

—On the island of Ichia springs are drying up and smoke is issuing from fissures in the ground. Another earthquake is greatly feared.

—Mrs. Charles Koblach pitched her husband into the canal at Trenton, N. J., and then jumped in herself. The woman was drowned but the man rescued.

—In Central Virginia the first rain for five weeks fell yesterday. Injury, which it is feared is irreparable, has been done by the long drought to corn and tobacco.

—William Berry, a Lexington colored boy, but that he could cross the track before the engine could catch him. He lost not only his hat but his head. The engine caught him.

—Mrs. W. B. Allison, wife of U. S. Senator Allison, drowned herself in the Mississippi at Dubuque, Ia. a few nights ago. It is said that the fact that she had no children drove her crazy.

—The failure of Ballou & Co., New York bankers, caused considerable excitement on Wall street Tuesday. The firm claim they will be straightened out in a few days. Their liabilities are $2,000,000.

—Thursday morning a fine mare worth $200 and a horse worth $125, belonging to Mrs. L. A. Dawson, residing on Pleasant Run, in this county, were struck by lightning and killed.—[Lebanon Standard.]

—A private insane asylum in Ealing, Eng., has been destroyed by fire. Many of the inmates were badly burned, and five of them perished. Dr. Boyd, the proprietor, and his son lost their lives in trying to save the inmates.

—There was another murder in Cincinnati Wednesday night. "Fox" Anderson killed Charles Marshall in front of the Four's Engine-house. The murdered man was a murderer, and his murderer has killed him before.

—If one speech from Col. Billy O'Bradley reduced the republican majority 768 votes in Christian county, how many speeches would it have taken to have wiped out the whole party? Republicans who are good in figures may work out the problem.—[Hopkinsville South Kentuckian.]

—Thompson Marion, the wealthiest citizen in Allen county, Ky., became insane and disappeared. His derangement is due to a railroad indebtedness. Allen county incurred, which has greatly disturbed him for several months. Tuesday he was found in the woods covered up with leaves and on being questioned, said he hid for fear of being killed court-day.

—Another man has called upon the editor and found him in. It was in Washington this time. A big, burly brute named Fitzgerald attacked Gen. Boynton, the Washington correspondent of a morning contemporary, and the general planted his No. 10 boot where it did a great deal of good. Long may he have his foot around so appropriate a door mat.

LINCOLN COUNTY.

Hustonsville.

—Alarmed by your threat in Tuesday's issue, that you will disinherit all your correspondents, I hasten to confession. In behalf of others I can only plead their native laziness. For myself the defense is: First: Since the days of Sleepy Hollow in its most lethargic state there has been no place on the map of the universe so soulless as this. The enterprise, the energy, the vitality of the community were all used up during the festivities of the Fair and the excitement of the election. The cloudless shock of a thunder peal from a cloudless sky would not surprise us into even a momentary activity. The long roll of an earthquake could not arouse the howling hosts of subterranean powers would scarce disturb our dreamless slumbers; hence we have no events to chronicle. Second: Our nature modestly forbids that we should parade before your weary readers the trivial matters which, however interesting in our own particular attitude and to the denizens of our unsophisticated suburban regions, can have no attraction for the thousands who look to the newspaper for something fresh and rare and racy; and Third: Conscience cries out against the crime of consuming the time of compositors, proof readers and pressmen, the wear of type, the expenditure of ink and the waste of paper over such twaddle as must of necessity be the contribution of the village scribbler.

—West Rod waking up. Born Aug. 9, to Mrs. Ben King, a girl. Aug. 12, to Mrs. G. C. Lyon, a girl. Aug. 14, to Mrs. Robt. Jones, a girl.

—Misses Ida, Lizzie and Blanche Twidwell, escorted by Mr. J. Q. R. Napier, left for Cumberland Falls on Wednesday. Joseph Page, Sr., and his son Joe, Jr., have gone to Adair county to visit friends. Mr. Matt McKinney, of Randolph county, Missouri, is here visiting relatives. Miss Gough, of Clark county, is with Miss May Thompson. Miss Little Foster, of Lexington, is with her sister, Mrs. Doe Helan.

—There is one topic of such interest in this and the adjoining counties that I can not refuse it a brief allusion. You will not deny me space, Mr. Editor, for a word in reference to the Rev. W. T. Tyng whose sudden death is recorded in your last issue.

Comparatively young, active, earnest in his calling, effective in his labors, and hopeful as to the grand results of his mission he was suddenly called to his reward by an end enter on his reward. But his is a noble record. Consecrated to the humble office of the ministry he deeply loved his work. Whether in the populous city or in the most sequestered rural nooks, in the gorgeous pulpit or in the grove which "were God's first temple," with the same untiring zeal, with the same honest simplicity he held forth the offer of Salvation.

The handsome new Baptist church in Hustonsville stands as a memorial of his zeal and efficiency. Hundreds of humble Christians in all the surrounding country hold his memory enshrined in their hearts. A faithful soldier has fallen—fallen with his armor on, and in his hand the banner of his King.

BEYOND THE OCEAN'S WAVE

"PRAISE THE LORD"

102 SHAKELWELL LANE, DALSTON, LONDON, E. July 27th, '93

Dear Interior:

On the night of Thursday the 19th, the day after our return from Scotland, began the meeting in Brunswick Chapel. This is a small brick edifice erected by a gentleman named Wood, whose property interests lie in the vicinity, and who has a heart for something besides accumulation. New Southgate is the name of the suburb, which is as yet sparsely built up, and really, very few people within easy reach of the little meeting-house. However, the dear LORD, who again and again turned aside from the great "multitude" and wrought for one soul, showed us very plainly it was our next place after Dalkeith, and we cheerfully entered upon the mission. The chapel is quite a little architectural gem, almost like a "toy" church, holding about 200 all told, and compared with the Dalkeith Corn Exchange a very small affair indeed. Beyond the children's meeting last Sunday, when every dear child confessed the Savior, 75 or 80 in all, the work has been chiefly confined to Christians. Altogether 121 have confessed the dear Name to date, which, almost includes every unconverted and backslidden person in attendance. We expect to hold on until next Sunday, doing what we can to build up and encourage the dear children of the Father, who can carry on the work on the same line, after we are gone. The meeting has already drawn out some grand workers, and we are very glad the dear LORD sent us to Brunswick Chapel. I hope in my next to tell of the meeting closing in fullest blessing.

Next Sunday week "if the LORD will" we are to begin in Hackney, a district even more needy than Hoxton or Stratford Le Bow. There we are to have a large church, with full liberty. The pastor goes to the sea-side, leaving everything to us to be led as the LORD may direct. He is in thorough sympathy with our gospel, including the bodily healing, and we anticipate a blessed gathering of the poor. We do not know how the LORD will put in the next week for us, but it will be something good and gracious, we are sure. The LORD has lovingly provided for us during the "heated term" in August, by a kind offer that only come to us last night. Our Highgate friends, the Bartletts, are all going to Paris for a month and offer us the use of their airy and delightful house just as it stands, servants and all, with no expense but for the table. This will be a great saving in our household economy, with an elevation of temperature exactly that of the ball on St. Paul's Cathedral, lifting us quite above the ordinary London atmosphere, which just now is rather odorous and perhaps unwholesome. After 12 o'clock we close our windows lightly, for the steaming breath of sleeping London seems to get impacted and take on an offensiveness that is not noticeable in daylight and the busy stir that appears to keep it from settling as it does after midnight. We shall be quite out of this at Highgate, by long odds the pleasantest and most elevated suburb of the great city. The railway trains make all as convenient for the Hackney meeting as for Dalston. How good in the dear LORD thus to provide for us, so that our work can go on in some thing like comfort even during the month when all who are able flee the city in "hot haste" emphatically. At present there are no signs of a "heated term" at all. We light fires every morning in the little dining room, and only let them go out about noon. But when the heat does come it will only be the more unbearable. It may be that there is Cholera in store for London this summer. I am no croaker, but I shouldn't wonder at all, if it comes. Thank the dear LORD we bear "charmed lives," who "keep" ourselves "in the love of God." O why do any leave that sure and safe retreat?

England is just now thrilled with the loss of her plucky swimmer, the daring Capt. Webb, and forgets the folly of the venture in admiration of the courage of the poor fellow who threw all upon the hazard of the "whirlpool" die and lost. And man forget how common a thing that is, with a dearer, costlier thing than a body life, where souls sadly enter with a zest upon the lip the deadly current that bears them resistlessly and surely on to the dreadful turning point, where lies the awful "whirlpool" from which no swimmer has ever yet emerged with life. Oh those white hands and pallid faces, uplifted for a moment, before they disappear forever! How they haunt me! LORD give grace and consolation to keep on, "if by any means I may save some," who may yet be saved.

We took tea with the dear Bartletts last Wednesday, and had a stroll to the grave of "George Eliot," who lies in the Highgate Cemetery. The monument above her remains is a very homely gray granite shaft, not over 10 feet in height, with gilt inscription as follows: "Of those immortal dead, who live again in minds made better by their presence." Here lies the body of "George Eliot"—Mary Ann Cross, Born 23d November, 1819, Died 22d December, 1880.

On the grass of the grave which has been flung demolished by loving or curious souvenir pluckers, some one has placed a glass flower plate, cross shaped with this inscription around it in letters formed from black glass beads "In Memoriam—A sleep in Jesus." The plate is empty and broken and some of the letters have disappeared—to reappear in the collection of some voracious robber perhaps, and altogether one feels that the grave is neglected. The impression is a pathetic one to those who admire this wonderful woman, but quite in keeping with what must be considered the melancholy close of a tragic life. Poor, dear victim of a false theology—that numbers its victims by the myriad! She recoiled from the only God she had been taught to believe in, and thinking there was no other, like Carlyle, preferred to be written down a skeptic rather than subscribe to a loathsome creed. And really, I see no other honest course for one who knows not the God and Father of our LORD Jesus Christ. Poor souls! I pity them and hope for them "against hope" I dare not count them unbelievers. I dare not say "asleep in Jesus." That is a sentence that says too much and I hope will soon all disappear from her humble grave. But I can not believe the heart that gave out of its fulness the character of Dinah Morris is one the dear LORD will be compelled to pronounce unfit for the companionship of the saved ones. She has gone "to her own place" as we all will go. Let us not say dogmatically where that is, for her, Michael Farraday and Dr. Jas. Hamilton are both interred at Highgate and I stood beside the humble monument of both, and thanked the dear LORD that both had lived to bless their generation.

Will you count me inconsistent or cross yourself dear reader in the horror of a recollection, if I also say that I looked with a deep interest upon the grave of Tom Sayre the conqueror of Heenan in the prize fight that every body condemned and every body read about with fascinated sympathy 30 years or so ago? He also lies in Highgate Cemetery, his tomb a plain tent-shaped box of stone with medallion portrait and inscription on the gable end, and on a projection right at its foot, the sculptured form of his favorite mastiff, that attended his funeral, and for days and days after his master was buried stalked solemnly through the open gates, none daring to molest the regulations strictly forbid dogs to enter the sacred enclosure, and sought the spot where the one he loved best lay buried, and then after uselessly waiting for him to come back, would go away with every appearance of broken-hearted dejection. The stone figure of the mastiff in life size and a likeness, brown and rough except on the top of the head and tip of the nose, where the touch of ten thousand hands has worn white spots polished and shining as glass. The inscription above and below the medallion portrait of Sayre, runs: "Sacred to the memory of Thomas Sayre, Born at Pimlico Brighton May 16th, 1826, and departed this life Nov. 8th, 1895." The face is rugged, but kind, though with an undeveloped forehead as compared with the more animal portions of the "human face divine." I can understand why his dog loved him, and his friends loved him. Poor fellow! I wish his English pluck and tenacity of purpose had been exerted in a nobler direction. Perhaps he never had the opportunities you and I have had dear reader. Let us pity poor Tom. He was a grand fellow in his way, and would have won Waterloo as well as "the Iron Duke."

And he been born above the prize ring. I am afraid I was far too much interested in reading the report of that great prize fight. I am sure that I read every round, with quite a zest, I wonder how many good people read of the way poor "Crib" was chewed up by his New York competitor and then said such things ought not to be put in print. The fact is, that there is an element of the combative in us all that feeds upon the exploits of the undaunted—he men or dogs. That is the element in us—God implanted—that will feed upon swine's husks if better fare be not forthcoming—still vainly striving to fill a void. To this element our God appeals when He bids us "endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ," or cries out in the thick of life's battle, in a clarion voice, "Come up to the help of the LORD against the Mighty"—ye who would win Crowns. This element finds its true outlet in the "good fight of faith," finds also its highest sense of satisfaction in the words that wind up the battle "I have fought a good fight," henceforth is laid up for me, &c." And the conclusion of the matter is simply this—I would not count much upon any one's religion as a lasting and effective principle who felt nothing stir within him but disgust at the indomitable courage with which the prize fighter takes his punishment, and then after a "sponge" or a rest upon his second's knee, "comes up to time" again, bruised, battered, bloody but unconquered. That is the way I want to fight the devil. May I stick to him? as poor Tom Sayre "stuck to his man," and win as well as he. I learned some good lessons at Tom's humble grave. At all of which my friend of the "unconscious selfishness" will hold up protesting palms, and say, "That is too bad! Bro. Barnes believes in prize-fighters too as well as race-horses." And I reply—"The wise shall understand." Parables are for unfolding "the mysteries of the Kingdom;" to those who have good and honest hearts or they may serve a second purpose "seeing you shall see and not perceive, and hearing ye shall hear and not understand," &c. If only I can get some dear fellow who admires "Crib" and "Tom Sayre" to think that I am one with him in that admiration and do not count it evil, but rather a hopeful sign, if only the spirit's admiration stops not at these lower forms of courage, but goes on still stepping upwards, until it grapples with "principles and powers and wicked spirits in the heavens;" then the goal for which the dear LORD implanted the capacity at first, shall have been reached, and HIS voice will sweetly say, "Well done," brave heart, thou hast been "faithful in the few, I will make thee ruler in the many."

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

LANCASTER ADVERTISEMENTS.

B. F. WALTER, SURGEON DENTIST, LANCASTER, KY. Office over Citizens National Bank. Office hours from 9 to 12 A. M. and from 1 to 5 P. M.

SAM M. BURDETT, ATTORNEY AT LAW, LANCASTER, KY. Will practice in Garrard and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals. (184-177)

H. G. KAUFFMAN, ATTORNEY AT LAW, LANCASTER, KY. Master Commissioner Garrard Circuit Court. Will practice in all the Courts of Garrard and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals.

Landreth's Garden Seeds

In Bulk, and the Nicest Line of FURNITURE

In Lancaster at the "ENTERPRISE GROCERY,"

LANCASTER, KY.

Proprietors.

GEO. D. BURDETT & CO.,

Proprietors.

LANCASTER, KY.

Proprietors.

Proprietors.

Proprietors.

Proprietors.

Proprietors.

say, "Well done," brave heart, thou hast been "faithful in the few, I will make thee ruler in the many."

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo, no one uttered a sound. And that is why we starved for letters. Ever in Jesus, GEO. D. BURDETT.

Let me in conclusion lovingly thank the dear, dear friends who have responded to my appeal for letters. Sisters Hook and Gibson and Cochran, and Mays, and Saulley, and "Cousin Belle," and the one blessed brother in Brooklyn, have my hearty thanks for their charming letters. It is almost amusing to note how one and all begin with the full permission that we are so overrun with correspondence that their letters are quite needless. The fact is, we have been quite starving for letters since our arrival, because every body has been thinking every body else was attending to the matter. Which reminds me of the legend that "once upon a time," there was an agreement among all the inhabitants of earth to shout at the same moment, with such an exceedingly loud voice, that the very "man in the moon" should hear. And so chronometers were set, variations in latitude and longitude adjusted, all things set for exactly 12 o'clock, high noon, on the 1st of April. And lo, when the time came for the earth to be shaken with the noise of many voices, and the "man in the moon" was to be startled out of his wits by the uproar. The upshot of the affair was this, that never before in the world's history had there been a time of such perfect stillness. For lo, every man on earth was so curious to hear that mighty utterance and was so lost in desire to hear it for himself, undisturbed by the sound of his own voice, that he forbore to shout. And lo

LOCAL TIME CARD.

Mail train going North..... 10:00 P. M.
Express train..... 10:00 P. M.
Express train..... 10:00 P. M.
Express train..... 10:00 P. M.

LOCAL NOTICES.

BUY PAINTS OF PENNY & McALISTER.

STANDARD ready mixed paints at Penny & McAlister's.

JOHN HANCOCK'S CURE. Penny & McAlister's sole agents.

WATCHES, CLOCKS and JEWELRY repaired and warranted by Penny & McAlister.

GIVEN up that McRoberts & Stagg make the best Soda Water in the world. Try it.

MACHINE OIL, which will neither heat nor gum, 60 cents per gallon. Also extra strained lard oil at McAlister's & Stagg's.

I will open my fish and oyster market regularly on the 20th and will keep a fresh and full stock all the time. J. T. Harris.

PERSONAL.

MR. JOHN Y. YEAKLEY, of Garfield, was here yesterday.

MR. S. S. McROBERTS has returned from Crab Orchard.

MR. T. W. HIGGINS has gone on a visit to friends in Kansas.

MR. E. B. BEAZLEY and family have returned from the West.

JAS. T. CRAIG has charge of R. S. Lytle's store in his absence.

SHERRIFF B. B. BROADUS, of Estill, is visiting his sister, Mrs. M. O. Vandever.

HON. A. G. TALBOT and Alex. Anderson, Esq., of Danville, were here Tuesday.

MISS MAMIE CHENAUULT has returned from a visit to her uncles at Fort Scott, Kansas.

MISS LETTIE HOLLOWAY, of Louisville, is visiting her little cousins, the Misses Warren.

MR. JOHN M. PELAND who has been attending the Normal School at Valparaiso, Ind., has returned home.

MRS. G. H. BRUCE has gone to the bedside of her sick brother, Mr. George Brown, at Pittsburg, Ky.

PROF. J. K. PATTERSON, of the A. and M. College, at Lexington, and his son Willie were here yesterday.

MISS MARY and Marie Barnett and Mr. Jack Barnett, of Louisville, are the guests of Mr. Ben. Spaulding.

MR. JOHN M. HAIR, Mrs. Sue M. Baughman and Miss Rhoda E. Hall attended the Baptist Association, which was in session at Somerset this week.

MR. PETER HAMTON has secured a position as drummer for the saddle horse of Card, Sinton & Co. Louisville, and the firm showed some in the selection.

MR. JAMES CROW has left with a copy of the Pueblo (Col.) Chieftain, which contains a well written letter from Salt Lake City, by his son, Matthew D. Crow.

MR. E. H. HACKNEY and Miss Helen Pearl were married in London Wednesday morning. They left for Louisville and were accompanied as far as this place by Misses Luella Pullins, Pattie Adams, Maggie Smith, Sallie Pearl and Messrs. Hackney and John Pearl.

LOCAL MATTERS.

FRANK JAMES and Cass at Bruce, Warren & Co's.

NEW FALL CALICOES for school girls at Robt. S. Lytle.

HORSE, Mule and Sack Races at Crab Orchard to-morrow evening.

THE finest assortment of fancy toilet soap in town at B. S. Myers.

TWELVE to fifteen tickets were sold from here to the Richmond Fair yesterday.

THIS has been the coolest August ever known, and yet no marriage license has been issued here for nearly a month.

POLICEMAN NEWLAND being sick, Chief of Police Elmore has appointed E. B. Caldwell to fill his place for the present.

THE little child of Dr. J. G. Carpenter, fell out of the second story window of his room yesterday but was not seriously hurt.

TURN Crab Orchard High School will open on the 3d Monday in September. See "Ad." of Secretary James Rice in another column.

COME and see our handsome display of Queensware and Glassware. Some very handsome dinner, tea and chamber sets. Bright & Curran.

THE Danville Planing Mills tell in another column what they can furnish and we are sure our builders and others can do better than to patronize them.

THE new flouring mill at Hustonville came near being cremated yesterday. The wooden supports of the furnace caught fire but fortunately were extinguished before the flames were communicated to the other parts of the building.

THE Telephone from here to Lancaster is all right now. Expert Billy Williams went over yesterday and after adjusting it moved it to the store of W. L. Withers. Messages solicited. Charges 25 cents, or for short conversation 25c.

IT is announced that the beautiful ball frill female who has wrecked the lives of a number of her fellow mortals, Miss Jessie Buckner, will make her debut upon the operatic stage at the Casino, in New York, in October. Look out for more murders.

THE Iron-front for the First National Bank building and Penny & McAlister's store will arrive to-morrow and the work of putting it up will be commenced at once. The bank will probably be moved to the vacant store room under the INTERIOR JOURNAL office while the changes are being made.

TOMORROW at 2 o'clock P. M., I will offer for sale at my residence in Stanford, Ky., some household and kitchen furniture, No. 1 cooking stove, &c. A few farming utensils, two extra milk cows, two Alderney heifers, Alderney bull; a remarkable gentle buggy mare; buggy harness; wagon harness and buggy, &c. P. W. Logan.

FRESH car salt, lime and cement at Bright & Curran's.

FOR SALE. - A handsome residence

Will sell very cheap. W. Craig, Stanford.

BEFORE buying elsewhere call and examine S. S. Myers' stock of groceries, which he is selling at bottom figures for the cash.

MY last year's individual business must be closed up, and those indebted to me must come and settle. I mean business. E. P. Owsley.

GOV. BLACKBURN will be "belle of the Ball" at Crab Orchard Springs to-night. We hope he will "pardon" us for not being present to do him honor.

BUSINESS CHANGE. - Mr. T. R. Walton, late of this paper, has purchased the grocery stock of Mr. W. T. Green, and commenced invoicing yesterday. He will continue the business at the same stand and run it at high pressure.

A MORMON recruiting agent passed yesterday with three women bound for Utah. He claimed them all as his wives and sat between two of the best looking of them on one seat, with one arm around each's neck. The older and uglier one sat bolt upright behind and seemed to take but little interest in the sugar doings going on in front of her. The women were from Tennessee.

In looking over the old records in the clerk's office this week, Col. W. G. Welch made the discovery that his residence is upon a lot deeded to his grand father, James Welch, in 1804, the consideration being $4.33. The property has passed through, perhaps, a dozen hands since and what then sold for a little over $20 could not be bought with the fine building on it for $15,000.

By an act of the Legislature each Legislative district is entitled to four pupils free of tuition in the State College at Lexington and in the Normal department each School Commissioner has the right to send four also free of tuition. The authorities of the Institution would be glad to have a full quota from each county. Those desirous of obtaining an education free should communicate with Judges Hill and Phillips.

THE young ladies enjoyed themselves greatly at Hale Springs seeing the Polar Bear dance to the music of the wheat fan and making the old fellows who sat soberly about get into hammocks and be swung at a break-neck height and speed. One old gentleman's eyes came near popping out of his head as he lay and looked at the rope with a broken strand that threatened every minute to part and drop him on the rocks below. It was fun for the girls but nearly death to the old man.

RAIN AND STORM. - Although but a light rain fell here Tuesday night, a heavy one visited some portions of the county. At McKinney, for instance, a great deal fell and a wind storm accompanied it, which did much damage to the corn, fencing, &c. No houses were blown down but the rocks away from Mr. Duncan, the colporteur, was turned bottom side up, tearing off the top and again set on its wheels. Wednesday evening a delightful rain, which came down gently but steadily for several hours, greatly revived vegetation here.

THE horrible news comes from Palaski that three men named Joseph Claiborne and James and Joseph Randall were beheaded as they lay asleep in a railroad camp in the woods and their bodies thrown over a hundred foot cliff by Frank Stagle and an accomplice. The men had just drawn their pay and it was for the purpose of getting their money that the crime was committed. Claiborne lived long enough to give the names of the murderers. Stagle was captured at Monticello and will no doubt be lynched.

TAKEN BY FORCE. - Mrs. Cundiff, one of the main witnesses for the Commonwealth in the case against Dunegan for murdering Mamie Bryant, failed to appear at Mt. Vernon and her brother-in-law Tom Hales and W. M. Howard came in to take the place for her. She was working for Mrs. Cook and on being told that they wanted her to go with them, she readily assented and said she would prepare. Some time elapsed after she went to her room and becoming impatient the men sent Mrs. Cook for her, who reported that she could not be found. It was afterwards discovered that she had fled by the back way with a railroad named George Harmon and the men having no authority to pursue and arrest the parties came here and applied to the clerk for the necessary papers. He had no authority, of course, to issue them and meeting Judge Owsley, subsequently they applied to him for the documents. He had no power either to give them but advised them to take the responsibility and carry the two to Mt. Vernon unless advised, as the man could be fined and the woman proceeded against for contempt. Acting on this advice they set out to hunt for them and found them in the depot preparing to leave on the night train. Harmon made a show of resistance but a couple of revolvers brought him to his senses and the two were taken to Mt. Vernon.

RELIGIOUS.

-The idols worshipped in India and Africa are manufactured by enterprising business firms in England.

-The Methodists have 134 churches and preaching stations and own property to the amount of $165,000 in France.

-Eldrs. J. G. Livingston and Stephen Collier will hold a few days meeting at Goshen, beginning next Sunday at 11 A. M.

-In the United States the Methodists outnumber the Baptists 263,338. The number of Baptists is 2,263,044; Methodists North, 1,680,779; Methodists South, 823,013; Free Methodists, 12,130; Primitive Methodists, 3,370; Independent Methodists, 2,100.

-The total number of communicants in the Southern Presbyterian church is 127,017, a gain during the year of about 4,000. It has Synods 13; Presbyteries 67; Candidates 199; Licentiates 45; Ministers 1,070; Churches 2,049 and 78,725 Sunday-School scholars.

-Chewing gum must go. The preachers are turning their attention to it and that settles it. At the Deering Camp Meeting Dr. Poynter preached a sermon especially to the ladies on the evils of wax-chewing, no doubt driven to it by the hundreds of jaws that were working on it in front of him.

-An item has been going the rounds for several weeks that all the members of the U. S. Supreme Court are infidels. The Christian at Work believing it was calculated to do the cause of religion great harm should men so learned reject the teachings of the Bible, investigated and here is what it says: "Chief Justice Waite is an Episcopalian, Justice Field is a true blue Presbyterian, Justice Bradley is an Elder in the Reformed Church, Justice Gray is a Changing Unitarian, and Justice Blatchford is a through-and-through Episcopalian. We are not advised as to the remaining five, but we believe there isn't an infidel on the United States Supreme bench."

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

FOR SALE. - 350 ewes, 3/4 miles from Hustonville at Stagg & Bohon's.

-At a public sale at Fayette 168 head of George Wilkes' colts averaged $213.

-Dr. T. B. Montgomery sold to John Tewney yesterday 4 mule colts at $75.

-I have 120,000 first class shingles for sale. B. G. Pennington, Stanford, Ky.

-Adam Pence bought of J. W. Long, of Clinton county, 100 wethers, 210 lbs., at 31 cents.

-Heavy losses of cattle for want of water are reported in the southern and southeastern ranges in Texas.

-Parole has been on the turf eight years, has started 119 times and won in stakes $80,139.25. He was bred in Kentucky.

-Scott & Land, of Jessamine, bought of Geo. W. King, of Crab Orchard, 108 ewes at $2.50 and of J. W. Long, 100 mountain ewes at $2.75 and 70 at $2.85.

-It is estimated that the U. S. wool clip of the present year amounts to three hundred and twenty millions of pounds, or about twenty millions greater than that of 1882.

-In the Louisville Exposition there is on exhibition an Arkansas squash which weighs ninety-six pounds, and a Tennessee cucumber which weighs ninety-eight and one-half pounds.

-New York, August 13. - Cattle $1 per head higher. Common to prime native steers $5.65 per cwt, live weight, Colorado steers $4.75 to $4.90; Texas steers $4.54 to $4.65, mainly $4.54 to $4.65; exporters bought 150 fat steers at $6.44 to $6.65.

-John W. Scillman, Sr., of Bourbon, sold to Watt M. Gay, thirteen fat 2-year old ewes at $1.25 per pound, that averaged 198 pounds. Wm. T. Neal sold to Wm. B. Ford, 64 head cattle, averaging 1,285, at 5 cents per pound, and one dollar on the head. - (Kentuckian.)

-Jim Cannon sold last week to Joe Wilson one 15-head 5-year old mule for $140; to Jim Jenkins, four mules from 14 to 15 hands, from two to four years, for $462.50. He bought eight mules in Butler last week at from $120 to $140 and one mare for $100. - (Bowling Green Gazette.)

-Dr. H. J. Sanders, of St. Mary's Parish, La., was here last week and bought of Messrs. Simms, Mattingly & Co. 60 head of mules for his own use and that of several of his neighbors. He bought them in lots, paying $180, $200, $210 and $220 per head for the different lots. - (Lebanon Standard.)

-In Cincinnati the cattle market is quiet and lower at 2 to 3 cents for common; good to choice butchers grades 4 to 5, common to best shippers 4 to 5.50; stockers and feeders 3 to 4. Light shipping hogs are in demand, others weak and dragging. Best butchers and shippers 5 to 5.50; common to fair 4 to 4.50. Sheep are slow at 2 1/2 to 3; stock ewes 2 1/2 to 4; do. wethers 3 1/2 to 4. Lambs are dull at 4 to 6 cents. - (Special to the Interior Journal.)

DANVILLE, KY., Aug. 16, 6 P. M. - Samuel Hatter was taking the cylinder from a pistol this evening when it exploded, badly shattering the fingers of his left hand. He knew it was loaded. A. A.

BOYLE COUNTY.

Danville.

-Mr. S. J. Moore and Miss Susan E. Brown obtained license to marry a few days ago.

-Mr. T. W. Twiney and Miss Maggie T. Fox obtained license to marry on the 13th.

-Jerry Williams, who killed James Hughes at Perryville last Thursday, was held without bail.

-The colored Fair began Tuesday, but not much excitement is apparent in the streets in consequence.

-A poor blind man named James Boon Cheatham has been here for several days selling a book and giving to each purchaser a copy of some verses of his own composition.

-The county clerk recorded on the 13th inst., a deed from Asher Owsley's heirs to Wm. T. Ward for 98 acres of the Lake Owsley estate in this county. The price paid was $5,292.

-Mr. J. W. Durban, agent, paid B. M. Piattman on Tuesday, $1,000, amount of insurance on his property destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. The company is the Fire Association of Philadelphia.

-In appreciation of the services of your correspondent in making complimentary notices of their hotel, Messrs. Gilcher & Bro. have promised to give him a Washington pie as a Christmas present.

-M. J. Farris sold to Thos. E. Wood 34 head of oxen averaging 1,260 lbs. each, at 4 cents. Same dealer to J. W. Allen & Co. 22,100-pound butcher cattle at 5 cents. Same to same car load fat sheep, weighing 125 lbs., at 4 cents.

-Messrs. Owsley & Beatty, of Toledo, Ohio, have begun the erection of a building near the depot, where they propose to carry on a business somewhat new in these parts. They will deal extensively in live and dressed poultry of every kind, butter, eggs, fruit, &c. They propose to ship largely to the eastern cities. One feature of interest about it, to our country people will be that they will always know where to get a market for their produce. These very agreeable gentlemen are living at the Clemons' House.

-Mr. T. J. Hudson has been quite ill for several days at his home in the country. Mrs. G. L. Christman, of Independence, Mo., is visiting the family of Col. Wm. Duke, her father, Mr. Jason Sexton, of Philadelphia, has been in Boyle county for several days the guest of Mr. H. C. Mock. Mr. Sexton is a partner of Wm. M. Singler, of the Philadelphia Daily Record, in the ownership of a fancy stock farm near Philadelphia. While here he will purchase some grade stock and a few horses.

-A dispatch received this morning states that "Nobby" Warren Russell's horse won blue ribbons at Mt. Sterling, Sharpsburg and at Richmond yesterday. W. L. Caldwell sold to D. Monroe, of Shreveport, La., a Jack colt ten months old for $375 and a 3-year-old Jack for $325. Wakefield & Farris sold to P. T. Gentry 7 head long 2-year-old cattle averaging 1,221 lbs. at 5 cents. Same firm sold to Mattingly & Sims, of Marion county, 10 head extra broke mules at $175 per head. To James E. Cowan a good 4-year-old saddle horse for $130.

-Town Marshal W. K. Hobbs, had 8 half grown negro boys at work on the street Thursday, liquidating by the sweat of their brows, fines assessed against them for persistent and general delinquency. Their latest exploit was a free concert they gave a few nights ago in front of a pious old auntie's house when they imitated in fine style the voices of cats, frogs, crows and other song-birds. They also engaged in the unknown as dancing. Peachy and Mary Curtis were each fined $10 and costs Wednesday. They were accused of keeping a house of entertainment for single gentlemen.

MT. VERNON DEPARTMENT.

Managed by John B. Fish.

-I undertake to write a few items in answer to a request by your efficient editor of the Mt. Vernon department, but you will of course notice the deficiency in this letter and those of the regular ones by comparison. Mr. Fish is very busy in Court and has not time, he says, to write as he would like. By the way, I will say here that I am under many obligations to him, for favors. He has been a help to me, as this being my first visit am unacquainted with the good people of this town. I have been very favorably impressed indeed, with the kindness with which I have been met on all sides. If you want to see genuine, old-fashioned hospitality, visit Rockcastle county.

-Go to J. L. Whitehead's for fruit jars.

-Mt. Vernon, with her 15 stores does a surprisingly big business.

-SAVE YOUR HOUS. - J. L. Whitehead has the remedy. - Dr. Haas' Hog Cholera Preventive.

-FRESH MEAT at the "Nick" Plait Mills. Custom grinding any day in the week. Jas. Marat.

-Born to the wife of F. L. Thompson, August 13th, a daughter. She is called Ann Elizabeth.

-Mr. J. L. Whitehead, the boss druggist, will be in Mt. Vernon during Circuit Court. His interests at Williamsburg keep him there the most of his time.

-You hear nothing on the streets but K. C. R. talk. The track laying will begin about Oct. 1st and ballasting has already been done on a great deal of the work.

-All persons indebted to me are requested to call and settle their accounts by the first of September or they will be placed in the hands of a collecting officer. I mean business. F. L. Thompson.

-Mr. S. W. Paris, of Paint Lick, who lately bought out the interest of Mr. J. H. Otter here, is a fine business man, and will open out a big stock about the 1st of October. Mr. Otter will engage in business in Louisville, his former home.

-I took a look at Mr. Jas. Marat's new steam mill which is quite an establishment. He has a double whistle attached to his engine which, when it goes off reminds one of an Ohio River steamboat. Mr. M. is a live man.

-I met two gentlemen representing the Oxley Stave Co. here yesterday, and they say that they are not the manner of men to be bull-dozed. Your types had it wrong. It was the purchasing agent of the Standard Oil Co. with whom Mr. Carson had the difficulty and not the Oxley stave man. Mr. L. G. Gooch is here in the interest of the Stave Co. and he informs me of the above facts.

-Young Robert Joplin, the 14-year-old son of the proprietor of the Joplin House, has a geological collection which is indeed a treasure. His assortment of Indian arrow-heads, relics, &c., can not be beaten anywhere. He has great fear of old Dr. Graham, and when told yesterday that the Dr. was in Stanford and expected to be here for the purpose of procuring the choicest of his cabinet, he forthwith hid them. He says the doctor has an Indian pipe which he borrowed for a few days only, but he hasn't been able to get it back.

-The following are the members of the Grand Jury at this term of Court. - W. L. Henderson, F. M. Bloomer, George Jones, Dock Williams, Wm. Brummett, Mike Jennings, Lewis Bowler, J. H. Resma, Eli Coffey, T. J. McGuire, J. W. Marlar, Jas. French, John G. Mullins, Sam McClure and Z. T. Cook, foreman. The Petit Jury is as follows: - O. Coffey, C. W. Rutledge, David Adams, W. T. Chestnut, Stephen Elder, James M. Jones, Thomas Hays, Ben Purcell, Stephen Pigg, J. T. Stephens, Allen Hatt, Logan Brown, Joe Parrell, Jas. Mahaffy, A. C. Sowder, W. B. Smith, Jno. Russell, Isaac Herrin, John Hasty, Sol. Griffin, Preston Overby, Lewis Sowder, Shadrin Hadden.

-Go to J. L. Whitehead's for your school books, inks, paper, pencils and all school supplies, which you can get at the lowest prices. He also has on sale daily and weekly papers, leading periodicals, and the works of the principal writers of Fiction and Poetry. If he hasn't got what you want he will get it for you - in fact any book published in the United States furnished at publishers' prices. Fresh drugs and medicines, tobacco and cigars, canned fruits and groceries. He also keeps a good supply of paints, oils, soap, perfumes, clocks, watches, jewelry and notions too numerous to mention. Go see for yourself, and be convinced that no one can undersell him. Orders filled by mail free of postage. Address, J. L. Whitehead, Mt. Vernon or Williamsburg, Kentucky. 1-24

I had the pleasure of meeting Dr. A. G. Lovell, who has lately begun the practice of medicine here, and is building up for himself a practice and a reputation.

-CHURCH COURT. - The town has been crowded this week with lawyers, their clients, witnesses, &c. Among the legal gentlemen I notice the familiar faces of Jno. W. Yerkes, of Danville, Judge M. H. Owsley, S. M. Bardett, W. O. Bradley and L. F. Hubble, of Lancaster; Judges M. C. Standley, J. W. Alcorn and R. C. Warren, Stanford; Judge G. Pearl, London, and Col. T. Z. Morrow, of Somerset. The Col. looks well, and is as jovial and full of laughable narratives as ever and doesn't seem to be at all worried over his defeat. Judge Owsley not being present Monday, owing to a misconnection of trains, Col. Morrow opened Court. The Judge however, arrived and now occupies the bench. The case against Dunegan, against whom an indictment was found for the murder of the girl in Rockcastle, was continued till next Tuesday. A change of venue will be obtained if possible, which no doubt is well enough, for the feeling in the county is very strong against the prisoner. The evidence, which is altogether circumstantial, is very strong and many predict a pulling of hemp as an expiation of his crime. The witnesses for the defense and Commonwealth are on hand and constitute a good crowd in themselves. Quinn, for the killing of Matthews nearly two years ago was given two years in the penitentiary. He struck his victim in the head with a rock from the effects of which he died sometime afterwards. The prisoner's youth and the peculiar circumstances surrounding the case, made the sentence much lighter than it would otherwise have been. There seems to be some doubt as to whether an indictment will be found against Cox for the shooting of Champ Mullins, which, from what I have heard in regard to the case, is rather strange. It will be remembered that Cox is the man who shot Mullins in the back on election day for some trivial cause. Mr. C. C. Williams has filed his application for license to practice law. Col. Sam M. Bardett and J. K. McClary were appointed as the examiners for this term of Court. John Moreland for keeping tipling house was fined $60. A. G. H.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The greatest medical wonder of the world. Warranted to cure Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Bites, Cancers, Piles, Chills, Rheumatism, Corns, Tetters, Chapped Hands and all skin eruptions, guaranteed to cure in every instance, or money refunded. A positive cure for Piles. 25c per box. For sale by Penny & McAlister.

Excited Thousands.

All over the land are going into ecstasy over Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their unlooked for recovery by the timely use of this great life-saving remedy causes them to go nearly wild in its praise. It is guaranteed to positively cure severe Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Hay Fever, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of Voice, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs. Trial Bottles free at Penny & McAlister's Drug Store. Large size, $1.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

HON. A. G. TALBOT.

Of Boyle, is a candidate for Speaker of the next House of Representatives.

Crab Orchard High School.

Open 3d Monday in Sept., 1893.

Board in private families very cheap. Applications for a male Principal will be received.

JAMES RICE, Sec'y.

DANVILLE.

PLANNING MILL.

COMPANY.

Manufacturers of

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Window

and Door Frames, Moldings, Scroll Saw

Work, Turning

Lathe Work,

Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Dressed Lumber,

And other

Building Material

Also Dealers in

Framing Lumber!

Call on us or write for prices. We keep a large stock and will do our best to please you in price and quality of material.

DANVILLE PLANING MILL CO.

173-238 Danville, Ky.

DR. T. E. SMITH,

Homeopathic Physician,

DANVILLE, - - KENTUCKY.

Residence, Clemons House; office, opp. Central Nat. Bank. Special attention to diseases of women and children for the past eighteen years. 165-3m

Furniture.

I have the fullest and best line of Furniture of every description ever exhibited in Stanford, as a result through my store will prove. My prices are as low as similar goods can be bought in the city, and I also have a full line of Undertakers' Goods!

And am ready to serve promptly with a nice, new, Hearse.

Orders by Telegraph Promptly Attended to.

B. K. WEAREN.

172-355m

School for Girls!

I will teach a day school for girls in the Springs building in Crab Orchard.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 1, 1893.

And continuing 8 months. I will be assisted by two competent teachers, one an instructor in music. For further particulars, terms, &c., apply to MISS PAULINE BRECK, Silver Creek, Ky. 163-2nd-41

Farm For Sale!

Adjoining the town of Bradfordsville, Marion county, Ky., containing 110 Acres of improved land; good two-story dwelling and all necessary outbuildings; good well, orchard and plenty of shrubbery; large barn around the house. Also 12 1/2 Acres of Timber Land, 2 1/2 miles from Paris, which I will sell very cheap. Call on or address 165-11

Ice! Ice! Ice!

I will deliver ice every morning.

